

Klaus,

Donald Trump has launched an all-out effort to rig the midterms — because he knows that if these elections are free and fair, Republicans are very likely to lose control of Congress.

He's already stolen at least six seats with an unprecedented mid-decade gerrymandering push, and he's using illegal executive orders to make it harder to vote, meddle with voting machines, and potentially undermine vote-by-mail.^{1,2}

But the centerpiece of Trump's attack on our elections in Congress is a bill called the SAVE Act, which would disenfranchise tens of millions of married women who have changed their names, transgender people, immigrants, and people who have recently moved.³

The SAVE Act already passed the House of Representatives, and we need your help to ramp up our efforts to stop this awful legislation in the Senate.

Trump has faced dangerously little pushback from Congress as he's shredded the Constitution, shut down entire agencies, and raked in billions through the most flagrant corruption we've ever seen from any president.

But if Republicans lose control, Trump will finally face real opposition and accountability from a coequal branch of government.

That's something that he, as an aspiring dictator, cannot abide.

The SAVE Act would require people to show a birth certificate or passport when they register to vote, disenfranchising tens of millions of voters who don't have access to these documents or have changed their names.⁴ Married women, transgender people, immigrants, and those who have recently moved would be especially affected.⁵

We've already mobilized tens of thousands of people to contact Congress and defend the midterms. Now, in the face of these rising threats, we must increase the pressure before it's too late.
