

TELL THE U.S. SENATE: After the Senate voted 52 - 47 to advance a bipartisan resolution to stop Trump's illegal war on Venezuela, Trump claimed that he canceled a second wave of airstrikes. The final vote in the Senate is tomorrow and we must ensure that the slim majority holds to stop Trump's military aggression. Sign the petition: Vote Yes to block Trump's unconstitutional war on Venezuela tomorrow!

Klaus,

A bipartisan majority in the Senate voted on a procedural measure 52 - 47 last week to stop Trump's war on Venezuela. The final vote on the war powers resolution in the Senate is tomorrow.

The bipartisan vote marked a rare and historic rebuke of Trump's unilateral military aggression.¹ Trump said after the vote that he canceled a second wave of strikes against Venezuela.² But with only a slim majority in favor of stopping Trump's war, and Trump placing pressure on Republicans who voted against him, it's critical that we send a wave of messages to our Senators urging them to vote Yes again.

This vote is about checking Trump's war powers in Venezuela and sending Trump a message that Congress opposes unconstitutional strikes against the countries that he has recklessly threatened: Iran, Cuba, Mexico, Denmark, and Colombia.

Left unchecked, Trump will use the U.S. military against anyone he sees as an adversary. Trump even antagonized Russia when U.S. forces seized a Venezuelan oil tanker sailing under the Russian flag.³ Trump seized yet another oil tanker from Venezuela on Friday.⁴

Trump is ramping up pressure against GOP Senators who defied him, saying they should be "ashamed."⁵ The 52-vote majority to advance the war powers resolution last week could fall apart tomorrow if they don't hear a wave of continued support from their constituents.
